Following my surgery on Tuesday, I could only manage 2 sausages, and certainly couldn't put pen to paper! But I must thank everyone I met that day at Cork University Hospital - from the cheery admissions staff to the hilarious Marguerite in SDU, from the gently brilliant surgeon with his charming, er, Kaar-ma, to the soothing anaesthetic duo of Rob and Orla, who rendered me unconscious with just one quip, from the angelic Criona, Fiona, Siny, Sinead and Angela, to the ever-attentive Maria with her delicious tea, and the stellar young surgeon, Sinead, with all her good news. Once again, this old physician recalled that "it's nice to be important, but it's more important to be nice" (and funny and concerned). The operation was tricky, but the miracle was that everyone involved managed to be so kind. And that was what I will always remember. Again, then, for the overwhelming relief, and the blessed restoration of faith in what the health service can do - and of course I mean its magnificent people - much thanks.
